Techtextil & Texprocess 2026: Innovation into Market Reality

Innovation is becoming the decisive competitive factor in the global textile industry. Taking place in Frankfurt from 21–24 April 2026, Techtextil and Texprocess bring together research, technology, and industrial application at the world's leading trade fairs for technical textiles and nonwovens.

During the trade shows, industry leaders will highlight how digitalisation, automation, and AI are accelerating development cycles, improving resource efficiency, and strengthening competitiveness—while underscoring the continued importance of human creativity and expertise. Sustainability remains central, with a strong focus on translating advanced materials, recycling technologies, and circular solutions into real industrial processes.

Beyond the exhibition floor, Techtextil and Texprocess offer expert-led forums, live demonstrations, and applied research presentations that turn innovation into real-world solutions. The events also provide a powerful networking environment, connecting visitors with technology providers, potential partners, and future customers from around the world.

CTIA members will be attending both events, creating valuable opportunities for networking, collaboration, and insights into global trends. For Canadian companies seeking to anticipate market shifts and identify new business opportunities, Techtextil and Texprocess Frankfurt are not just informative—they are strategic.
