The environment at the heart of the Canadian textile industry

Understanding Consumption Trends and the Value of Textile Certifications

Claire ALEXANDRE
Textile Business Unit
Sales Officer at
ECOCERT Group

Claire joined the ECOCERT Group last year to develop textile certifications in North America (USA, Canada and Mexico). Her mission is to inform and make companies and consumers aware of the benefits of sustainable and recycled textiles.

Vincent DURET
Textile Business Unit
Manager at
ECOCERT Group

Vincent has been working for the Ecocert Group for over 20 years. He is mainly dedicated to the development of the textile sector with the objective of fostering responsible and sustainable actions through textile certifications and best practices.

The Canadian Textile Industry Association presents Ecocert Canada:
ECOCERT is the number one organic inspection and certification body for sustainable development worldwide.

For more than 30 years, Ecocert has been supporting many stakeholders in the deployment and promotion of sustainable practices through certification, consultancy and training. Committed to organic farming since its creation, Ecocert has now extended its actions to many other sectors.

Ecocert is committed to ecological textiles: As a pioneer in organic textile certification, we have been encouraging the use of plant-based raw materials for the textile industry for nearly 20 years. We have a local presence in the main textile producing countries, thus meeting the requirements of the internationalization of the sector.
